

I am writing to ask you to strongly consider your rule changes for non-profit radio. I listen to KLOVE radio. This radio station greatly impacts my daily life, in a positive way. The programming on KLOVE encourages me to live a godly life, including helping others and pleasing God. I urge you to think twice about the changes your proposed rules would cause to radio stations that are impacting people in a positive way. I am NOT for obscene and crude radio content, and I am all for imposing stricter rules for that type of radio. However, there are non-profit, listener funded radio that would be hurt by your proposed rules. Namely, advisory boards. Who is to say that an advisory board would not agree with Christian messaging and punish good, positive radio? Your new proposed rules could require additional staffing that non-profit radio stations just cannot afford. This could force radio stations that are impacting people's daily lives in a great way, off the air. This is wrong. Please impose stricter rules on obscene, crude and out of control radio stations. Do not harm radio stations that are helping and encouraging people to live a life that is not only godly, but better for each community./

Thank You,
Tammy Ransom
